No Ruling Yet On Farrington Suit

At a July 8 hearing before Circuit Court Judge D. Culver Smith attorneys were unable to reach an agreement on a settlement of the suit.

Judge Smith ordered the attorneys to file written memoranda in support of their arguments in August, according to Clark's attorney, Claude Jones. Judge Smith had set a Monday for a ruling on the tion by Jones for a direct verdict for Clark after a jury found Henry Earwood, a named in the suit, not guilty June 21.

Jones said he expected Smith to make a ruling in case by September.

Farrington had charged Earwood and Clark with false rest, trespassing by illegal search and false imprisonment in connection with incidents

Speaking in over-all terms, the reduction seems like quite a bit; however, District FPL manager Curtis Chase released figures this week which indicate that residents won't be getting a huge reduction on an individual basis.

Commission, the company filed one general service order to replace three schedules that were set up by size.

School Program Keeps Rolling

A full round of recreational activities continues at Lake Shore Schools during their summer program according to officials in charge.

Average daily attendance is 175, and 210 children are enrolled.

Boys members are planning to go to West Palm Beach soon to visit with the Roosevelt High Summer Band students. L. A. Kirksey extended the invitation recently. Another band program is planned for July 25 at the school cafeteria at 8 p. m.

In sports this week the Lake Shore Tigers beat South Day's Panthers 21-2, however, the Okeechobee Bears whipped the Tigers 8-7. The Lake Shore Juniors won over the Pahokee Blue Devils 8-5 in a game which was close all the way. Bivins and Hickson pitched for the winners while McCarthy was the losing hurler.

The Pahokee Midgets squeaked past the Lake Shore Midgets 6-4.

Clifford Jackson announced this week that an inter-school tournament was tentatively set for July 24. Harlem Academy, Clewiston; East Lake, Pahokee; Okeechobee Elementary, Rosewood; and Lake Shore will take part.

Jackson also reported that the night programs were continued at the school starting each evening between 6:30 and 7 with quiet games. Any civic organizations, Jackson said, who wish to come out to use the area for any activity may do so. Parents are especially urged to visit the program.

Negro Youth Held Here For Assaulting Girl

A 15-year-old Belle Glade negro is being held by county authorities on alleged rape charges in connection with an assault on a 13-year-old negro girl at Okeechobee Labor Supply Center here July 5.

William Jenkins was questioned Tuesday by prosecuting attorney Phil O'Connell prior to a hearing before the grand jury. Constable W. L. Lee said Jenkins entered the girl's home, assaulted her and left through a back room window. A county official notified police who called Lee.

ELS Reaches Mid Point In Program

The summer recreation program sponsored by the Palm Beach County Board of Public Instruction, the East Lake School Center has successfully completed the first half of the schedule term with 127 pupils enrolled.

The majority of participants are residents of Pahokee with the Everglades Camp group running a close second. Five residential areas are represented in the record of daily attendance.

If it were more convenient for children from the outlying districts to reach the center, the enrollment would soar well over 200. Transportation is a major problem for many pupils.

With Stanleigh Murrell and Office Davis as co-directors this season, program emphasis has been in the areas of sports and games, music and library activities. Most popular among the team sports is softball.

Teams on the field are known as the Crimson Hawks. With six remaining games to be played on the regular schedule, both Midgets and Juniors have made excellent records to date. Jerry Williams and Ernest Williams are captains of the respective teams on the diamond.

Intra-mural ping-pong tournaments are popular with all age groups. Among the most talented players who have developed is surprising accuracy and cutting strokes with the paddle are the Foster brothers, Frank and Frazier, Phillip Abrams, Bobby Butler, and Cephus Croncy. These players are consistent winners in both singles and doubles matches.

A contest is being planned between East Lake and Okeechobee Center to take place in the near future.

The school also extends thanks and honorable mention to Ad Atkins, local civic leader, and the fleet of local taxi drivers for their donations of service in providing free transportation for many students on the first trip to the lakefront picnic area.

Many features are planned for the enrichment of the program at East Lake during the next three weeks. Pupils who have not enrolled are urged to get their names on the registration books at once. Participants must be between the ages of six and 18. The program will close for the season on July 26.

JOB AND WORKER

With the labor market as it is today and as it promises to be in the foreseeable future, the most important aspect of today's forward look at the future of farm placement is continuous planning for more effective utilization of the workers that are available. We feel that basically we have a comprehensive farm program. Yet this program must remain flexible and dynamic as farming itself is.

In estimating our supply of domestic agricultural workers for the coming year, we are convinced that in order for agricultural employers to compete with industry for the qualified workers that are available, they must give immediate and continuous consideration to the improvement of their housing, steady and continuous employment, and the health and welfare of their workers.

Post 20 Stages Bingo Party For VA Hospital

Several members of Everglades American Legion Post 20 and its auxiliary visited the Veterans Administration Hospital at Coral Gables Monday night to conduct a bingo party for the patients.

Parties of this nature are conducted periodically by members of posts in districts nine and ten. Legionnaires helped the boys with their cards while auxiliary members served refreshments.

Bingo parties seem to give the patients a big lift from what might ordinarily be a dull period of confinement. Many of the patients thanked the legionnaires profusely. One young man remarked, "I don't care if I didn't win anything, I got to play."

Those attending were Commander and Mrs. W. H. Mc-

County Roads Can't Be Used For Racing

County Commissioner Paul Rardin, Canal Point, was given a negative answer by County Attorney Harry Johnston this week at the county commission meeting July 8 when Rardin asked if drag racing enthusiasts are permitted to use roads and runways owned by the county for raceways.

Johnston said state law prohibits the use of county owned roads and the Glades Airport runways as speedways for drag racing.

Commissioner Rardin asked that the board, through its attorney, notify Clarence Kidder, Belle Glade resident, that drag racing would not be permitted on the airport runways and county roads.

FIRST RADIO ON EAST BEACH

In 1922 East Beach, the fisherman's name for Pahokee and Canal Point, was growing as rapidly as its haphazardly as an oil boom town. Unlike many other Everglades settlements, it was not backed by a land company, but it was not in acquiring a promoter, a self-appointed one in the person of Guy Stovall. He had come to sell homelot plans, but remained to become a man of commerce. A newspaper, he felt, was essential, but since he had neither printing press, typewriter nor money getting one established seemed an insurmountable task. First he crossed the lake and arranged with Andy Carter, who published the Moore Haven Times. From a couple of hundred copies of each issue of the Times, Andy was to remove one column, "boiler plate" and insert Stovall's boiler news, then the heading on these copies would be changed to "East Beach News" and they were to be shipped on the mail boat to Pahokee. For an office, he had meanwhile rented a front room in the building across the street from the present Ford Garage. Paul Mansfield had stood good for the rent, Tolly Youngblood agreed to transcribe the notes, and B. Elliott had a typewriter, so they became the staff of the publication. According to Howard Sharp's account, finding news was less difficult than obtaining cash subscriptions to pay for it. The obstacle, Guy, with his customary ingenuity, characteristically overcame.

By a fortuitous circumstance, Guy's office was in the same building as Joas Levens' meat market, from the back room of which was dispensed genuine custard apple shine. A window with a sliding panel connected this room with the newspaper office. Upon receiving a subscriber's $2.00 payment, Guy would place a quarter on the window sill and rap three times. The window would open and a two-handled jug would appear. After the customer had raised the jug and gurgled twice, the jug was snatched away and the panel firmly closed. Guy referred to this procedure as "liquidating his subscription list."

The like farmers at this period were completely out of contact with the condition of the vegetable markets, and were at the mercy of the buyers, who did not fail to take advantage of the situation. It occurred to Pioneer Stovall that since there was no telegraph, maybe a radio might be used to receive the daily market reports. Accordingly he journeyed to Tampa, found a radio receiving set for sale for only $250.00, and enthusiastically agreed to take it home with him.

Upon returning to Pahokee he convinced the principal farmers that he could now keep them in daily contact with the northern markets, and furnish some musical entertainment as well. With these convincing arguments he sold stock to eight or ten of them and collected $780.00 in cash. In his office he installed the radio a complicated contrivance of dials, knobs, mysterious boxes, bulbs and wires, and several large batteries. After phones and an amplifying horn it monopolized considerable part of the small room. To B. Elliott, the official mechanic of East Beach, was delegated the baffling task of making the contrived thing operate. B had never seen a radio in his life, and Guy's initial instructions were of little help. In strictest privacy the two of them sweated day and night, but all they could get out of it was static. A few times at night, a program from Nashville, Tennessee could be faintly detected. By one pretext and another Guy prevented his stockholders from learning the true situation. Meanwhile, word had spread that Guy Stovall had a radio. From B. Elliott's point to Utopia the interest was intense, and likewise the stockholders were indicating extreme impatience. It was evident that something would have to be done, so in desperation, Guy announced that on the following Saturday night there would be a public demonstration of the miracle machine. All that afternoon the boats arrived from up and down the eastern shore, filled with fishermen and farmers, many of them bringing their womenfolk and children that none might miss this unique experience. The stockholders, being privileged persons, were installed in chairs outside the office window, for this building, like so many stores of that time, was elevated a couple of feet from the ground and had a wide porch across the front. Fishermen and farmers surged and crowded in the dusty street. With his customary loquaciousness, Guy endeavored to entertain the spectators while B. Elliott, with his twisted dials and tightened contacts, but without avail.

Guy ducked inside for a consultation. "How are you doing, B?" he whispered, "can you get anything out of it, do you think?" "Not a thing! I can't even get Nashville! Guy, we're going to have to do something, and do it quick. That mob outside is getting mighty impatient. Back here, is doing a land office business. They'll be here in five minutes. They're going to have to do something. After a while they may get unpleasant!"

"You are dead right about that, B, but how about these fishermen who spend $780.00 on this machine. If we don't give them folks something for their money, these crackers are going to kill me!"

"Listen, Guy," B whispered, "I've got an idea. It's our only chance. Go out and hold them off a couple of minutes longer."

Guy reappeared on the porch, carefully adjusted the head phones to his ears, rolled his eyes and smiled ecstatically.

"Now we've got it, folks! he shouted. "It's tuned in on Nashville station. It's coming in good! They say they are going to play some music." Then, passing the earphones to Dr. Spooner, the largest stockholder, he announced, possibly a little louder than seemed necessary, "It will be Home Sweet Home."

Immediately, loud and clear in the breathless night, floated the familiar strains of Home, Sweet Home. As the last plaintive notes died away, Guy, who had been standing with his back to the door, called out "That's all for tonight, folks! Good night, everybody!" slammed the door and disappeared.

Had one been lurking in the rear, he might have detected the shadowy form of B. Elliott scuttling out from under Joas Levens' store, his trusty harmonica in hand.

But as to how Guy Stovall appeased his stockholders, dependent sayers, not.

Editor: There is one tour in Florida that I have not seen in a travel brochure, but I feel it is becoming so standard that it would be safe to add it at this time. It could be called a "police tour" in which the out-of-state is the guest of honor on a tour of the local police station (and jail if he does not get out of prescribed "fees").

I have heard quite a bit about this famous (or infamous) aspect of your fair state, and am privileged to view it first hand on June 9, 1957, in Belle Glade. I was traveling north (which I understand is the usual direction) in a line of traffic. The car in front of me was a Florida car, as was the car behind me (about 100 yards behind). All the cars were traveling at the same speed, including the one in front of me.

Yet police officers (Police and Eugene Sholz (I hope the spelling is correct, since their writing about it on a police blotter (situation) saw fit to pass the car behind me, let the cars in front of me go, and arrest me for traveling 50 miles per hour in the zone. The whole affair was ridiculous (sic) from start to finish. I know I did not go over 35 mph, and then I was simply following a line of Underwriters Attend Convention June 28-29 Three members of Everglades Life Underwriters Association attended a convention of the Underwriters of America June 28-29 at Lakeland.

Ray S. Wilson, vice president of the Everglades group, C. W. Bennett, a board member, and L. O. Cook made the trip. Highlights of the convention was the election of state officers.

State's Economic Factors Show Rise Last Year Over 1955 The wheels of Florida's economic machinery turned more rapidly last year than in 1955. All principal economic indicators in 1956 stood at a higher level than in the previous year, although rates of gains in the majority of instances were not as large as the Florida State Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday.

Factors measuring the state's strides, with the 1955 to 1956 gains, are itemized in this week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division. Retail sales were estimated 15 per cent higher; non-farm employment was up 10 per cent; 17 per cent more electricity was generated and the state's resident population was more by 4 per cent. Each of these increases were greater than in the 1954-1955 period.

The following items, though growing significantly, reduced pace to some extent. Personal income of Floridians, estimated unofficially, rose a 1955 to 1956 gain of 10 per cent; gross farm income was up 8 per cent; bank deposits in seven financial centers were 15 per cent more; department store sales gained 10 per cent; sales tax collection stood 15 per cent higher; 11 per cent more gasoline was sold and 12 per cent more motor vehicles were sold.

LP-GAS INDUSTRY RESISTS INFLATION

The average of all items in the Bureau of Labor Statistics cost of living index advanced almost 30 per cent in the past ten years. In the same period LP-gas, used by millions of suburban, town, and farm homes, increased only 83 per cent, a survey conducted by the National LP-Gas Council reveals.

Although the average of all items included in the U. S. cost of living index has jumped almost 30 per cent in the past ten years, LP-gas has increased only 83 per cent, a survey conducted by the National LP-Gas Council reveals.

The increase in living costs was revealed by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The Bureau had reported an increase in prices that brought the cost index in April 1947 to 1954 per cent of the 1947-49 price level.

This means that it took about $1.20 to buy the same amount of goods and services that could be bought for $1 in the 1947-49 period.

To determine if rising prices in the LP-gas industry were contributing to the inflation, the LP-gas industry, the National LP-Gas Council, conducted a survey of hundreds of LP-gas customers in every state.

The dealers were asked to tell how much their bulk customer price increased per gallon in the past ten years. Results of the survey indicate that the price of LP-gas, used in homes for heating, cooking, water heating, clothes drying, refrigeration, and air conditioning, has increased only 83 per cent.

Services Held For Former Residents Killed Friday

Funeral services for Ragin Eugene Mansolo, 26, and his wife, Thea Russell Mansolo, 23, former Belle Glade residents, were held July 8 at 10 a. m. in the Church of Christ, Mango, Fla., conducted by James W. Jordan, following their death Friday in a car-truck collision near Clearwater, Florida.

MRS. MANSOLO

Other rites were held Monday afternoon at Williams Thomas Funeral Home in Gainesville with burial in Evergreen Cemetery there.

The fatal accident occurred on SR 80 near Haines Road, when the Mansolo auto crashed into a truck-tractor gasoline tanker and burned before the bodies could be recovered.

The husband, a graduate of the University of Florida, came here in 1953. He was employed by Hy-Grade Food Products, Hialeah, as a cattle buyer.

Mrs. Mansolo, a graduate of the Business University of Tampa, came to Belle Glade in 1953 and was employed for a time by Florida Foods, Inc. here.

Following their marriage June 15, 1956 at Seffner Methodist Church in Tampa, they resided in the Dun Aspey apartment on S.E. Ave. F.

Three months ago they purchased a home in Orlando; however, Mansolo continued to make business trips to the Glades Livestock Market.

Mr. Mansolo is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Mansolo, Gainesville; three sisters, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Orlando; Miss Thelma Mansolo and Miss Virginia Mansolo, both of Gainesville.

Mrs. Mansolo is survived by her father, Sam Aaron Russell, Mango; and a brother, Samuel A. Russell, USAF, Del Rio, Texas.

One of the most colorful enterprises in American history, the Pony Express, existed for only 18 months — from April 3, 1860 to October, 1861. War between the States ended the service.

It has filed two residential schedules to replace three such schedules and has abolished city limit zoning. The rate differential between the largest cities served and the smaller cities has been reduced.

The following tables show the reduction to the consumer if the new rate schedules are accepted.

The examples given are for supposed electric bills of $3, $5 and $10.

$5.00	$4.34	$.66

At a meeting with the Commission on June 25 the company announced that it had concluded to recommend to its board of directors a revision of rates rather than subject the company to a lengthy and unnecessary rate case.

Chairman Smith said the revision and proposed reduction were being made in spite of the fact that the company has obligation in policy brings about gated itself for a program twice as great as anything they have undertaken previously.

"We had planned to finance $20,000,000 in September," Smith said, "but now that will have to be delayed until market is settled and our investors' fears are allayed."

Smith went on to say, "This a very great reduction in the unincorporated areas reducing such residential customers in some 12 to 13 percent. Florida is growing so fast that there may be a few rural customers in one neighborhood today, but in a few months there can be a huge shopping center in their midst with large residential subdivisions. Whereas the former policy might have been preferential to the city customers, the new policy could be said to be preferential for the rural customers, but in a territory that is developing as rapidly as ours is, we believe the commission will consider this non-preferential."
